

All are cordially invited to a brown bag lunch co-sponsored by the Department of Jewish Studies and the Department of History

“I remember the Jews”:
Memory, Dual Marginality, and Belonging as
Haratin in 20th-century Morocco

MOYAGAYE BEDWARD

Rutgers PhD candidate, Department of History

This talk will explore how the Haratin, a community marginalized because of its putative slave history, engages in memory and cultural preservation as means of cultivating a sense of local and national belonging in Morocco. Specifically, it will examine how Haratin preservation of local Jewish history has contributed to combatting notions that the Haratin are not indigenous to Morocco and not truly “African.”

Wednesday, October 30, 2019 at 12pm

The Bildner Center, 12 College Avenue

Please RSVP to info@JewishStudies.rutgers.edu